

>300 Word Biography

Mie, a 28-year-old singer-songwriter and producer from Milwaukee, continues to captivate audiences with her poignant originals and soul-baring storytelling. Known offstage as Maggie but performing as Mie (pronounced "mEE"), her musical journey began at seven. Her first stage performance, a solo a cappella act, ignited her passion for music. She further developed her skills in piano, voice, guitar, dance, and theater. Throughout her primary school years, Mie traveled across the U.S., participating in Kodály children's choral concerts, which enriched her artistic sensibilities.

Mie's music serves as a cathartic outlet for processing the emotional burdens of childhood trauma and family estrangement. Her personal growth and healing are poignantly reflected in songs like "Daddy Issues," "Mine," and "Too Much." Influenced by the lyrical depth of 2000s icons like Jewel, Adele, and Alicia Keys, Mie's musical style spans electropop, blues, folk, and Americana, allowing her to resonate with a diverse audience.

Her debut, "Alchemie EP," released in 2021, features five tracks that blend influences from artists such as Billie Eilish, Jessie Ware, and India.Arie Simpson. The EP received global attention, amassing thousands of streams in fifty cities worldwide shortly after its release. Mie describes the EP as transforming life's darkest moments into "beautiful liquid gold," echoing the principles of alchemy.

Recent milestones in Mie's career include performances at Summerfest 2023 and features on The Musician's Venture and The Wisconsin Music podcasts. Notable appearances include American Family Field's "Live from Left Field" series, SoFar Milwaukee at Amorphic Beer, Nö Studios, the #iVoted Festival 2022, and a recent opening slot for Ben Mulwana at The Coffee House, following her southern tour with Cullah.

Last summer, Mie collaborated with Timothy Rose to form Venus Sugar High. Their project is set for a 2024 release. Additionally, her upcoming single "Freakshow," a pop rock track, is expected in October 2024, promising to be a bold new addition to her discography.

Don't miss out on Mie's upcoming releases and exciting journeys. Sign up for her mailing list to stay in the loop!